This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

PREFACE.

It has often struck me, while reflecting on the critical circumstances of the country, when the late Earl of Plymouth submitted to the Government and to the County of Worcester the expediency of raising a Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, and the almost immediate state of efficiency exhibited by that Corps under his Lordship's command, that it would be only an act of justice to the memory of that much lamented nobleman, and to the gallant gentlemen and yeomen who so nobly responded to his patriotic appeal, to preserve some record of the first establishment, and subsequent services of the Regiment, and to add any memoranda respecting its discipline and internal economy which might be interesting and useful, not only to its own members, but also to those of other corps.

With this view I am happy to sanction the following pages, which will, I trust, afford just subject for gratification and honest pride to the Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Privates of the Queen's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry.

MEMORANDA

RELATIVE TO

THE QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT

WORCESTER YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

1831. May.

The London Gazette of the 25th of May, 1831, contains the acceptance of the services offered to the Government by the late Earl of Plymouth, in the name of those gentlemen and yeomen of the county of Worcester, who had expressed an earnest desire to enrol themselves under his lordship's command.

The events that afterwards occurred, and which led to so much disturbance during the winter of 1831, and the spring of the following year, proved the propriety, and even the necessity of such enrolment.

The following officers were gazetted into the regiment on the 24th of May, 1831:—

	Troop.	Letter.
Colonel, the Right. Hon. Other Archer Windsor the Earl of Plymouth,	Staff.
Lieutenant-Colonel, the Right Hon. Henry Lord Lyttelton,	Staff.
Chaplain, the Right Hon. and Rev. Walter Hutchinson, Lord Aston,	Staff.
Major, John Joseph Martin,	Staff.
Captain and Adjutant, William Emmott,	Staff.
Surgeon, William Henry Ricketts,	Staff.
Assistant Surgeon, Frederick D. Stephenson,	Staff.
Veterinary Surgeon, John English,	Staff.
Captain, Richard Hickman,	Stourbridge,	A.
Lieutenant, William Wheeley,	Stourbridge,	A.
Lieutenant, Charles Noel,	Stourbridge,	A.
Cornet, Thomas Amphlette,	Stourbridge,	A.
Captain, Henry Turner,	Kidderminster,	B.
Lieutenant, William Butler Best,	Kidderminster,	B.
Cornet, Thomas Pardoe,	Kidderminster,	B.

	Troop.	Letter.
Captain, Thomas Henry Cookes, Lieutenant, Francis Lyttelton Holyoake, Cornet, Richard Hemming,	1st Tardebigg,	C.
Captain, Denham Charles Johnston Cookes, Lieutenant, William Robeson, Cornet, George Vernon,	2nd Tardebigg,	D.
Captain, Edward Henry Bearcroft, Lieutenant, Thomas Gale Curtler, Cornet, John Curtler,	Hanbury,	E.
Captain, Sir Offley Wakeman, Bart. Lieutenant, Richard Temple, Lieutenant, Joseph Smith, Cornet, John Williams,	Worcester,	F.
Captain, John Somerset Pakington, Lieutenant, Arthur Skey, Cornet, John Whitmore Isaac,	Westwood,	G.
Captain, the Hon. William J. Coventry, Lieutenant, William Dowdeswell, Cornet, John Williams Martin,	Upton-on-Severn,	H.
Captain, James Taylor, Lieutenant, James Moliette, Cornet, William Phipson,	King's Norton,	I.
Captain, Edward Holland, Lieutenant, William Gist, Cornet, James Ashwin,	Evesham,	K.

10 Troops, and 40 officers.

On the 14th of September the regiment was assembled for the first time in a body at head-quarters, at Hewell, and was inspected by Lieutenant-Colonel Keane, of the 7th Hussars, on which occasion six standards were presented to the regiment by the Countess of Plymouth: after the inspection, the neighbouring gentry and the regiment dined in a large tent provided for that purpose. The magnificence of the fête, and the hospitality of the Earl of Plymouth, will long be remembered in the surrounding district. And on the 17th of the same month they marched to Worcester, to perform eight days' permanent duty, as required by Government; thus shewing, that in the space of little more than three months from the date of the acceptance of their services the regiment was raised, armed, accoutred, and perfectly ready for service.

1831. September. On the 23rd the regiment was inspected by Major General Marriott, and on the 26th the following order was issued:—

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, September 26th, 1831.

"THE Commanding Officer is happy in having to announce the high commendations passed by Major General Marriott, on the appearance, the steadiness, and efficiency of the Regiment on the 23rd instant; and he is confident that the same zeal which has hitherto so successfully been evinced by every member of the corps in acquiring a knowledge of his duty, will continue conspicuous, when the remaining object is to maintain and uphold that character which the Regiment has gained, and that discipline and efficiency of which it has a right to be proud.

"The Commanding Officer cannot conclude without offering his own best personal thanks to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, for their attention and conduct both in and out of the field during their permanent duty at Worcester; conduct which has not escaped the notice, and has excited the admiration, of the authorities of that city.

"The Commanding Officer cannot omit taking this opportunity of bearing testimony to the unwearied zeal and meritorious exertions of Captain and Adjutant Emmott on every occasion.

"PLYMOUTH."

November. On the 4th of November, 1831, the Upton troop, commanded by Captain the Hon. W. Coventry, and the Worcester squadron, commanded by Captain Sir Offley Wakeman, Bart., were called out in aid of the civil power, in consequence of a disturbance among the boatmen on the River Severn, near Upton-on-Severn, and remained on duty until the 9th.

On the 7th of November, the Stourbridge squadron, commanded by Captain Hickman, was called out in aid of the civil authorities at Stourbridge, and having assisted in dispersing the mob, returned to their quarters on the following day.

About this period considerable disturbance and bad feeling were prevalent throughout the county, and even the peace of the city of Worcester was seriously threatened: the exertions of the mayor, and the arrangements that were made between the authorities and Lord Plymouth, gave confidence and restored order. A troop of the 7th Hussars was sent to be quartered in Worcester, and a few infantry were ordered into the city, and remained there for several weeks, until all was quiet. 1831. November.

In the vicinity of Dudley the colliers, furnace-men, and others, employed in the works in the neighbourhood, left them; and the consequences were mischief, riot, and destruction; this state of affairs rendered it necessary for the magistrates to apply to Lord Melbourne, then Secretary of State for the Home Department, for assistance;* the Government being unable at that moment to afford the aid required, application was made on the 1st of December for the assistance of the Worcestershire regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry to support the civil authorities; the Stourbridge squadron being nearest to the disturbed districts, was immediately sent to Dudley, and orders were issued to the different troops of the corps to march as soon as possible to Dudley, Oldbury, Hales Owen, Stourbridge, Kidderminster, and the adjacent villages and hamlets; the order for the most distant troop was despatched at half-past one o'clock A.M.; many of its members were distant fifty miles: notwithstanding, it arrived at its appointed destination at half-past twelve P.M. December.

The regiment remained on duty in the mining-district fourteen days, patroling by day and night, preventing mischief, taking and escorting rioters to the different county-gaols;—one hundred and twenty-six prisoners in all were taken. Detachments patroled throughout the various districts of Worcester, Stafford, and Salop, until the better-disposed were prevailed upon to return to their work, under the protection of the yeomanry.

On the 10th of December, the 91st Foot arrived, and being followed by fresh troops, the regiment was released from its duty on the 14th, after receiving the thanks of the Magistrates, and the approbation of their Colonel in the following orders:—

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Dudley, December 13th, 1831.

bourhood, and the testimony of their approbation contained in the subjoined letter:—

"'My Lord,

"'We have the satisfaction to offer to your Lordship, and to every soldier of the Worcestershire Yeomanry under your command, our heartfelt congratulations upon the approaching conclusion of your fatiguing labours in restoring peace and tranquillity to this town and neighbourhood, and we seize the present opportunity of tendering to you and them, our sincere and grateful thanks for the promptitude and zeal with which you stood forth as the bulwark of our safety at a time when the defenceless persons and properties of the peaceable inhabitants required protection from the imminent dangers with which they were assailed.

"'Indeed, the public spirit, and ardent courage, the unsparing and indefatigable exertions, the personal sacrifices, and other essential qualities of good soldiers, which have been so conspicuously and devotedly displayed in the discharge of the arduous duties imposed on this corps, during the late disturbances, call for those warm and just acknowledgements of approbation and gratitude to which all and each of its members are so eminently entitled, and of which on our parts we feel it a pleasing duty to request your and their acceptance.

"'To the Right Honourable the Earl of Plymouth,

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Dudley, December 14, 1831.

"The Commanding Officer takes the earliest opportunity of expressing to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, his warmest thanks for the manner in which they assembled when called upon by the civil authorities; and for the promptness, zeal, energy, and soldier-like conduct, which they have evinced in the discharge of the different duties that have devolved upon them during the time they have been assembled in this district. The rapidity with which they reached the different posts to which they were summoned at so very short a notice is most creditable to the regiment at large, and does honour to their feelings as individuals. 1831. December.

"The Commanding Officer has again to notice the incessant and meritorious exertions of Captain and Adjutant Emmott, which have been most conspicuous, and the services which he has rendered, and to express to him strongly his thanks.

"The conduct of the regiment has been most exemplary; and the Commanding Officer cannot but express the pride he feels in having the honour to command such a body of men.

"They are now released from their duties, and will carry with them to their homes the consciousness and honest feeling of pride, that, if they have made sacrifices, they have been for the public good; that they have honourably discharged their duty to their country; and are accompanied by the thanks, good wishes, and gratitude, of the neighbourhood they have protected.

"PLYMOUTH,
"Colonel Commandant."

"TO FRANCIS DOWNING, ESQ., MAYOR OF DUDLEY.

"WE, the undersigned, request you will convene an early Meeting of the principal inhabitants of this town and parish, for the purpose of expressing our cordial thanks to the Right Honourable the Earl of Plymouth, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, for their prompt and efficient services in suppressing the late disturbances in this town and neighbourhood.

"December 21st, 1831.

"THE Commanding Officer feels great pleasure in communicating to the Regiment another testimony to their zeal, energy, and soldierlike conduct, in the subjoined resolution, passed at a numerous and respectable meeting of the inhabitants of Dudley, convened by the Mayor, on the 16th instant. 1831. December.

"'That the sincere thanks of this meeting be presented to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, for their indefatigable exertions whilst on duty, the patience and forbearance with which they endured the clamour and insults of the misguided populace, and for their orderly demeanour during the time they were quartered at Dudley.'

"The Commanding Officer has further the satisfaction of stating to the Regiment, that their conduct has been noticed in a very flattering manner by his Majesty's Lieutenant of the County, and has met with the marked approbation of his Majesty's Government.

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head-Quarters, Hewell, January 10th, 1832.

"THE Commanding Officer has the greatest satisfaction in communicating to the Regiment the subjoined order of the Court of Quarter Sessions for this County, on the 2nd instant; a vote of thanks from Stourbridge, conveyed by a deputation of Magistrates; and a vote of thanks from the inhabitants of the town and parish of Bromsgrove. 1832. January.

"'Thanks to the Earl of Plymouth and the Yeomanry.

"'The Magistrates assembled at the present General Quarter Sessions, cannot pass over the opportunity of expressing their highest approbation of the Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, and of the exemplary, firm, and constitutional manner in which the Regiment performed their military duties in putting down the late riots in this part of the country.

"'This Court therefore requests that Lord Plymouth will accept himself, and convey to his Corps, the thanks of this Court, for their truly patriotic, constitutional, and military conduct on those occasions.'

" ' To the Earl of Plymouth, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry.

" ' We the undersigned (Magistrates and Gentlemen, 177,) feel it impossible adequately to express our thanks for the essential services you have lately rendered to our town and neighbourhood, and for the excellent conduct you have displayed during your most severe and harassing duties, attended, as they must have been, with serious inconvenience and considerable privations to many of you.'

" ' At a general meeting of the inhabitants of the town and parish of Bromsgrove, held in the Town Hall, on the 7th of January, 1832, in pursuance of a requisition to the Bailiff,

" ' It was resolved,

" ' That the inhabitants of this town and parish, impressed with the strongest feelings of obligation to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, for their noble and patriotic conduct on occasion of the late disturbances in the neighbourhood of Dudley and Stourbridge; and feeling convinced that to their prompt and zealous exertions they are solely indebted for the preservation of peace and good order in this neighbourhood, do hereby desire publicly to express their sentiments, and request the Right Honourable the Colonel to accept for himself, and convey to the Regiment under his command, this small token of the high sense of respect and gratitude they must ever entertain for the distinguished services they have rendered, not only in the neighbourhood in which they were engaged, but also to the country at large.'

" Plymouth,
" Colonel Commandant."

The freedom of the city of Worcester was presented to the Earl of Plymouth in February in consequence of the past events.

In the beginning of the year 1832, a squadron of one hundred men was raised in Dudley, by the magistrates and gentlemen of the neighbourhood, aided by Captain Bennitt, who took the command of the squadron, and their services being accepted by the Government, they were added to the regiment, and now form the Dudley squadron; consisting of 1832. May.

On the 6th of June, 1832, two squadrons composed of the Upton and Evesham troops and Worcester squadron, were called out to Upton-on-Severn and Tewkesbury to assist the civil authorities in protecting vessels against the assaults of the boat-haulers, and after having captured eighteen of the most riotous, returned to their quarters on the 13th. June.

In consequence of the prevalence of the cholera at Worcester, the regiment assembled at Warwick on the 29th of September, for eight days' permanent duty, and was inspected by Major-General Campbell. September.

On the 6th of October the following order was issued:— 1832. October.

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY.

"Warwick, Oct. 6th, 1832.

"THE Commanding Officer takes the earliest opportunity of announcing the high commendations and unqualified approbation expressed by Major General Campbell, of the appearance, steadiness, and efficiency of the Regiment, and the manner in which it performed the different evolutions; as also the intention expressed by the Major General of reporting to his Majesty's Secretary of State the very favourable opinion he entertains of the Regiment.

"The Commanding Officer has to offer his warmest thanks to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates generally, for their assiduity and attention. To the officers he begs to express his gratitude for their constant co-operation and support, and to every member of the Regiment the pride he feels in commanding such a body of men. "PLYMOUTH."

On the 5th of November the regiment had the honour to escort November. their Royal Highnesses the Princess Victoria and the Duchess of Kent, then on a tour from the confines of the county to Hewell, and formed the guard of honour during the visit of the royal guests. On their Royal Highnesses' departure, the regiment had the honour of escorting the royal visitors to Red Hill, Warwickshire; and on the 9th the subjoined order was issued:—

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Hewell, November 9th, 1832.

"THE Commanding Officer loses not a moment in communicating to the regiment the gracious commands he has this day received, from her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent, conveyed to him in the subjoined letter from Sir John Conroy.

ber. On the 11th and 12th of December the Stourbridge and Dudley squadrons were called out to assist in preserving order during the election; and on the 14th, four squadrons, with the artillery of the regiment, marched to Kidderminster, to protect the polling places, and to aid the civil power in the preservation of the public peace; and, having received the thanks of the magistrates, returned to their quarters in about ten days.

In the spring of 1833, new saddles were supplied to the regiment by the Earl of Plymouth.

On the 9th of July, the Earl of Plymouth was attacked by apoplexy, which terminated his Lordship's valuable existence in the course of a few hours.

This is scarcely a fitting opportunity for dwelling on the loss which the county of Worcester sustained by the death of such a man, whether considered in his public or his private capacity; and it is surely needless to state, that by the members of his corps, who had witnessed the happy facility with which he had united individuals of all classes, of all parties, of all opinions, in the defence of their common county,—the splendid scale on which he arranged, and the unsparing liberality with which he supplied, the various appointments of the regiment,—the indefatigable energy and intelligence displayed by him in perfecting its discipline,—it is surely needless to state, that by them his untimely loss was universally, sincerely, and deeply lamented. His Lordship's funeral was attended by the whole of the regiment, anxious to envince the last sad tribute of respect to the mortal remains of their lamented commander.

ber. On the 28th of September, the regiment, under Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Foley, upon whom the command devolved, assembled at Worcester for eight days' permanent duty, and was inspected by Lieutenant-Colonel Story, of the 3rd Dragoon Guards.

On the 27th of February, 1834, the Stourbridge squadron was called out to Dudley, to assist the civil authorities in the suppression of an election riot. 1834. February.

On the 15th of May, the regiment assembled on the Lickey, to witness the laying of the first stone of the monument to the memory of the late Earl of Plymouth, by the Lord-Lieutenant of the County, Lord Lyttelton, the subscription for which emanated from the regiment, and many residents in the county, anxious to show the respect they bore towards their much-valued commander and friend. The following inscriptions were placed on the pillar: May.

On the north side.

"The first stone was laid by William Henry Lord Lyttelton, the Lord Lieutenant of the County, on the 15th day of May, 1834."

On the south side.

"Erected by the Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, to mark their lasting gratitude to the honoured memory of their beloved and lamented Commander; and by the County at large, to commemorate the disinterested, solid, and efficient public service, and to commend to imitation the exemplary private virtues, of Other Archer Windsor, the sixth Earl of Plymouth."

The Plymouth Fund was established in May, to assist all non-commissioned officers and privates in cases of injury sustained (except in the field) either to man or horse, no allowance being made by Government. To remedy this inconvenience, the application of the above named fund was suggested and acted upon.

Extract of a letter, dated October 13th, 1833, from Mary Sackville, Countess of Plymouth, addressed to the Hon. R. H. Clive :—

"I give five hundred pounds to the commanding officer, to be applied as he thinks best for the benefit of the regiment."

The above sum was laid out in the purchase of stock, with the additions received subsequently.

The Countess of Plymouth, .	£500	0	0
The Rev. the Lord Aston, . .	25	0	0
Captain Bennitt, ...	20	0	0

The above amount produced 614*l.* 2*s.* 9*d.* stock in the Three per Cent. Consols, the interest of which is applied as above mentioned.

On the 13th, the following order was issued :—

" Hewell, September 13th, 1834.

" The Commanding Officer is proud to call the attention of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, to the satisfactory and flattering terms of the accompanying observations of his Majesty's Lieutenant of the County of Worcester, who has been pleased to express his approbation of their appearance in the field, the day of the review, and of their general state of discipline and equipment.

" ' Col. Clive,

" ' It has given me much pleasure, both in my private and public capacity, to have met you and the distinguished Regiment of which you have lately taken the command, on the present occasion, and I am happy to be able to assure you on far higher authority than my own, that the Regiment has again distinguished itself, under peculiar disadvantages too, of short and difficult training in most unfavourable weather, by its excellent appearance and performance ; nor can I doubt that much of this is owing to the great attention and skill too, which you have already brought to the discharge of your duties as Colonel.

" ' I hope I may have many future opportunities of meeting you upon similar occasions ; and I beg you now to convey to your officers and men the assurance of the great satisfaction which their performance this day has given me, and to acquaint them, that I shall not fail faithfully to report the excellent state of the Corps to his Majesty's Government.'

" The Commanding Officer avails himself of this opportunity to request Lieut.-Colonel Lord Foley and the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, to accept his most cordial thanks for the zealous and soldier-like conduct which all have exhibited in their respective stations during the period of their continuance in quarters.

" The diligence and attention with which the details of military movements have been by them imparted and received, the cleanliness and orderly demeanour of the men, the good-will and harmony which have prevailed throughout, are most honourable to individuals, and most satisfactory to the Commanding Officer.

"For the present the Commanding Officer bids the regiment farewell, with the full reliance, that whenever he shall again have the honour of placing himself at their head, he shall find the same loyalty and zeal, the same attention to discipline, and the same determination to support in every possible way that distinguished reputation which the Worcestershire Yeomanry so speedily attained and so invariably enjoyed under his noble relation, who raised and formed the regiment, and who established that excellent system by which it has become so pre-eminent. 1834. September.

"The Commanding Officer will use his best and constant endeavour to tread in the steps of his noble and lamented predecessor, and whilst he follows the example which he has left him, he feels he shall best consult the interest and wishes of those who do him the honour to serve under him, and shall most surely confirm the respectability and efficiency of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry.

"The Commanding Officer cannot conclude these observations without expressing his deep regret at having to announce to the regiment the death of Sergeant Howcroft, which occurred yesterday. The Commanding Officer is convinced that his loss will be generally felt by the regiment, but particularly by the squadron to which he was attached.

"R. H. Clive,
"Lieut.-Colonel Commandant."

On the 19th, the following order was issued:— 1835. September.

"THE Commanding Officer has the happiness of informing the Worcestershire regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, that by their soldier-like appearance and the precision of their movements, they have obtained the approbation of Colonel Sir George Teesdale, commanding the King's Dragoon Guards, by whom they were inspected yesterday, which the Commanding Officer had the honour to receive in the following terms:—

"'Col. Sir George Teesdale has the pleasure to express to Col. Clive his most entire approbation of the very fine and soldier-like appearance of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry under his command. The correctness of all the movements in the field was highly creditable to the Corps, and was a strong proof of the zeal and ability of the Commanding Officer, and that there must exist an anxious and unanimous feeling in every individual in it to uphold the honour and credit of this most excellent and efficient regiment.

"'Worcester, September 18th, 1835.'

"The Commanding Officer avails himself of this opportunity of expressing his best thanks to Major Martin and his brother officers, and to Captain and Adjutant Emmott for their zealous and valuable co-operation on all occasions, and he assures the non-commissioned officers and privates, that he feels justly proud of his honourable connection with a body of high-spirited and loyal men, who have again established their claim to two most essential qualities of military discipline, regularity in quarters, and efficiency in the field. On the 8th of October the following order was issued:— 1836. October.

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, October 8, 1836.

"THE Commanding Officer has the satisfaction to congratulate the Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, upon the high terms of praise and approbation passed upon the Regiment by Lieut.-Colonel Clark, of the 7th Dragoon Guards, yesterday, at Kempsey, which the Commanding Officer has had the honour to receive, in the following words:—

"'Lieutenant-Colonel Kennedy Clark, of the 7th Dragoon Guards, having had the honour of inspecting the Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry this day, begs the Honourable Colonel Clive, commanding that corps, will have the goodness to convey to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, under his command how highly satisfactory it was to Lieutenant-Colonel Clark to observe the general good condition, and serviceable description of the horses, the excellence of the saddlery, arms, and appointments, and the uniform manner in which they were put on.

"'The steadiness and precision with which a variety of evolutions (some of them of a difficult nature) were performed, was most creditable to the Corps.

"'The zeal and attention evinced by all ranks was most conspicuous; and Lieutenant-Colonel Clark will not fail, in making his report, to mention the favourable opinion he entertains of the merits of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry.'

"The Commanding Officer considers it his duty to observe, that the system introduced when first the Regiment was formed, under their lamented Colonel, the late Earl of Plymouth, and maintained by the zeal and activity of Captain and Adjutant Emmott, is the source from whence the marked approbation of Lieutenant-Colonel Clark has emanated.

"The Commanding Officer avails himself of this opportunity to return his warmest thanks to his brother-officers, to the non-commissioned officers, and privates generally, for the attention and zeal shewn by them during the last week the Regiment was at Worcester.

"To his brother officers he begs to acknowledge with gratitude the support and assistance he has received from them on all occasions; and to every member of the Regiment he is happy to state, that the same character for steadiness and intelligence in the field, and regularity of conduct in quarters, has been again displayed, which afford the best test of the efficiency of a regiment.

"The Commanding Officer has had to regret the absence during the last week of Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Foley and Major Martin, which, he is sure, has been generally felt by the Regiment, caused by Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Foley's delicate state of health, and by Major Martin's attendance upon a near relative for a similar object.

"R. H. CLIVE,

On the 26th of July, 1837, two squadrons (the King's Norton and Tardebigg squadrons) were called out by the magistrates of Birmingham, in aid of the civil power, to assist in quelling an election disturbance, which led to the following order:—

"Hewell, August 1st, 1837.

"THE Commanding Officer takes the earliest opportunity of expressing to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the King's Norton and Tardebigg squadrons, his warmest thanks for the manner in which they assembled when called upon by the civil authorities in the course of the past week, and for the rapidity with which they reached the different posts, to which they were summoned at so very short a notice.

"The forbearance, and soldier-like conduct, which the King's Norton squadron evinced, when called upon, in the discharge of their duties, the Commanding Officer feels it his duty particularly to notice, so creditable to the character of the Regiment.

"The Commanding Officer has again to observe upon the activity and zeal of Captain and Adjutant Emmott, for which upon all occasions he has been so conspicuous, and to express strongly his thanks.

ber. On the 16th, the following order was issued:—

"WORCESTERSHIRE REGIMENT OF YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, September 16th, 1837.

"THE Commanding Officer congratulates the Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, which he has the honour to command, upon the observations subjoined, which contain the sentiments of Major Scarlett, of the 5th Dragoon Guards, upon their appearance in the field yesterday morning.

"'Major Scarlett has great pleasure in expressing to Colonel Clive, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Worcestershire Yeomanry, his entire approbation of their appearance and movements in the field. The nature of the evolutions reflects great honour on the officer commanding, whilst the steadiness with which they were performed proves the intelligence, zeal, and attention of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates. The uniform and appointments are so fitted and put on as to do great credit to the Corps.

"'Major Scarlett is also desirous of making known his approbation of the manner in which the guns were manœuvred, and the efficiency of that force in every respect.'

"The Commanding Officer must take this opportunity of once more returning his most sincere thanks to Major Martin, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Worcestershire Yeomanry, for their excellent conduct during the period of their annual assembly. Their numerous attendance at a season of some personal inconvenience; their mutual harmony and good will; the regularity of their demeanour in quarters; and the precision and intelligence which have characterized their movements in the field, deserve the highest commendation.

"Major Martin will be pleased to accept the special thanks of the Commanding Officer for the uniform assistance which he has afforded to him; and, in general, the acknowledgements of the Commanding Officer are due to his brother officers, and to Captain and Adjutant Emmott, and staff-officers of every degree, for their cordial co-operation in their several departments; and so assured is the Commanding Officer of the efficacious system of discipline which has been established in the Regiment, that he can contemplate no circumstance in which either officers or men can be placed in which they will not do credit to themselves by their steadiness, temper, and discretion. 1837. September.

"R. H. CLIVE,
"Lieut.-Colonel Commandant."

The distinguished honour conferred upon this Regiment in being appointed to escort her Majesty (then Princess Victoria) on her Majesty's visit to the county of Worcester in November, 1832, gave rise to the wish on the part of the Lieutenant-Colonel, and the other officers of the regiment, to solicit her Majesty's most gracious permission to allow the regiment henceforward to bear the title of Her Majesty's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry: her Majesty's most gracious permission was conveyed in the following order:—

"Head Quarters, Hewell, December 13th, 1837. December.

"THE Commanding Officer has sincere pleasure in congratulating his brother officers, the non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, upon the distinguished honour that her Majesty has been graciously pleased to confer upon the Regiment; which the following letter, addressed to the Lord Lieutenant of the County, by the Secretary of State for the Home Department, announces.

"R. H. CLIVE,
"Lieut.-Colonel Commandant.

"'MY LORD, "'Whitehall, December 9th, 1837.

"'I HAVE laid before the Queen your Lordship's letter of the 6th instant, expressing the earnest desire of the Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry to have in future the distinguished honour of being called 'The Queen's Own Regiment;'

"'And I have the satisfaction to inform your Lordship that her Majesty has been graciously pleased to accede to their request.

"'I have the honour to be,
"'My Lord,
"'Your Lordship's obedient servant,
(Signed) "'J. RUSSELL.'"

"'The Lord Foley.'"

ber. The regiment being now a Royal Corps, its facings were changed from buff to blue, with silver lace, and embroidery throughout the entire equipage, agreeably to regulation.

The death of Lord Lyttelton, the Lord Lieutenant of the County, occurring in the month of April of this year, Lord Foley succeeded to the Lord Lieutenancy, and resigned his commission in the regiment, and the Gazette of the 28th of December contained the commission of Lord Ward as Lieutenant-Colonel.

On the 28th of June, 1838, on the occasion of the coronation of her most gracious Majesty, the Queen's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry paraded by troops and squadrons, in their respective towns, in review order; each having a field-day, and firing salutes in honour of the occasion.

ber. On the 29th of September the regiment assembled at Worcester for eight days' permanent duty, and was inspected by Lieutenant-Colonel Townsend, of the 14th Light Dragoons.

During the period of permanent duty, some plate was presented to Captain and Adjutant Emmott, as a mark of the personal regard of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates; and a proof of their respect for his attention to the discipline of the regiment.

On the 8th of October the following order was issued :—

"QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, October, 8th, 1838.

"The Commanding officer has once more the great pleasure of calling the attention of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, to the subjoined remarks of Lieutenant-Colonel Townsend, of the 14th Light Dragoons, in which that gallant and experienced officer expresses his opinion of the Regiment, after the inspection of the 5th instant.

"'Lieutenant-Colonel Townsend begs to express in the strongest possible terms, his entire approbation of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, both as regards their general appearance, as well as their movements in the field, shewing thereby that great zeal and attention on the part of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, has been exercised, without which their present state of efficiency could not have been obtained.

"'The appointments were in every respect creditable to the regiment.

"'To Lieutenant-Colonel Clive, the officers of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry, and to their adjutant, Captain Emmott, the highest meed of praise is due from Lieutenant-Colonel Townsend, for their unremitting zeal in shewing him the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry in such a state of perfection as he had the honour of seeing them this day.

"'J. TOWNSEND,

"'Lieut.-Col. 14th Light Dragoons.'

"The Commanding Officer, always alive to the reputation of the Regiment, has derived a peculiar satisfaction from their excellent conduct in all respects during their first assembly since their reception of those marks of her Majesty's gracious favour, which so long as they prove themselves worthy of them, will be their proudest distinction.

"Whilst, however, the Commanding Officer continues to receive that assistance which the experience of Major Martin enables him to afford: whilst the regimental officers so sedulously attend to their several squadrons and troops, the staff-officers to their departments; and, whilst the non-commissioned officers and privates conduct themselves as now, and as on all former occasions, with good order and sobriety in their quarters, and with smartness and intelligence in the field, the regiment will do no discredit to that especial patronage which Queen Victoria has condescended to extend towards them. 1838. October.

"The unavoidable absence of Lieutenant-Colonel the Lord Ward has been a source of regret to the Commanding Officer, and to his brother officers.

"R. H. CLIVE,
"Lieut.-Col. Commandant."

On the 15th of July, 1839, the regiment was called out, in aid of the civil authority in and near Birmingham, in consequence of disturbances by the Chartists; it continued on duty until the 20th of August, and the whole of the regiment being called into service, and a relief of troops being made, this duty was carried on without inconvenience; and for their efficiency in performing it they received the thanks of the local magistracy as follows:— 1839. July.

"QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, August 24th, 1839. August.

"THE Commanding Officer has the gratification of communicating to the Regiment the subjoined testimony of approbation, (dated the 30th of July,) of the Magistrates of the Stourbridge district, addressed to Captain Sir Offley Wakeman, Bart., as well as the resolutions of the Justices of the Peace for the Northfield division of the County of Worcester, in the neighbourhood of Birmingham, at a petty sessions, held on Monday, the 19th of August, 1839.

"'TO CAPTAIN SIR OFFLEY WAKEMAN, BART., AND THE OFFICERS AND MEN UNDER HIS COMMAND.

"'The undersigned Magistrates of the Stourbridge district beg to express their sense of the promptitude with which the Worcester squadron of Yeomanry Cavalry answered the call of the Lord 1839. August. Lieutenant of the County to repair to Hagley; and of the proper and orderly conduct of the men while stationed at that place.

"'Stourbridge, 30th July, 1839.'

"'At a petty sessions of Justices of the Peace for the Northfield division of the County of Worcester, held on Monday, the 14th of August, 1839, J. P. Ledsam, Esq. in the chair,

"'It was resolved unanimously,

"'That the grateful thanks of the Magistrates are due, and are hereby presented to the Honourable Colonel Clive, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomany Cavalry, for their prompt, able, and efficient services during the time they have been stationed in this neighbourhood.

"'That Captain Taylor be requested to transmit this resolution, and to express the gratification with which the Magistrates have heard that the regular and orderly conduct of the privates has given great satisfaction to the inhabitants of this division.

(Signed) "'J. P. Ledsam,
"'Chairman.'

"The Commanding Officer has the pleasure further to state to the Regiment, that their conduct has been noticed in a manner most flattering by Colonel Thorn, Assistant Quarter Master General, the officer in command at Birmingham, and by the Lord Lieutenant of the County; and their services have been most highly appreciated by Her Majesty's Government, conveyed in a communication which has been received from Lord John Russell.

"R. H. Clive,

On the 7th of October the following order was issued:—

"THE QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Hewell, October 7th, 1839.

"THE Commanding Officer has again the pleasant duty imposed upon him to congratulate the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, on the honourable conclusion of the period of their annual training.

"Their conduct in quarters, and the steady and orderly demeanour of disciplined soldiers, which they have exhibited in the city of Worcester, and on all occasions, deserve the warmest commendations; and, with regard to their appearance in the field, the Commanding Officer adverts, with peculiar satisfaction, to the appended remarks of Lieutenant-Colonel Chatterton, of the 4th, or Royal Irish Dragoon Guards, officially appointed to inspect them.

"'Worcester, October 4th, 1839.

"'LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CHATTERTON, 4th Royal Irish Dragoon Guards, having now completed his inspection of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Regiment of Cavalry, takes the earliest opportunity of expressing his unqualified approbation of the appearance and discipline of the regiment. It was most satisfactory to the Inspecting Officer to see a corps so perfect in all its points; the accurate manner the different evolutions were performed, and the perfection to which the artillery have arrived, at once bear testimony to the talent of the Commanding Officer, Lieutenant-Colonel Clive, and to the zeal, efficiency, and discipline of the regiment; and a most gratifying duty now devolves upon the Inspecting Officer, that of making a most favourable report of a regiment that has always maintained so high a character as the Queen's Own Worcestershire Regiment of Cavalry.

"'W. CHATTERTON,
"'Lieutenant-Colonel, 4th R. I. Dragoon Guards,
"'Inspecting Field Officer.'

"General Lord Viscount Combermere, G.C.B., &c. &c. &c., one of the most experienced and renowned officers of cavalry, having condescended to honour the inspection with his presence, the Commanding Officer is proud to assure the Regiment that the opinion of that admirable military judge is entirely in unison with that of Lieutenant-Colonel Chatterton, and is as favourable to their character for zeal and efficiency in the field movements, as the highest civil testimony has been 'in the discharge of every duty they were called upon to perform,' in that most difficult and delicate of all duties, the aid of the civil power. 1839. October.

"The Commanding Officer delights in the opportunity of renewing to Major Martin and his brother officers, the expression of his thanks for their unwearied and valuable support; in which they have been most ably abetted by Captain and Adjutant Emmott, and the officers of the regimental staff.

"The Commanding Officer regrets the unavoidable absence of Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Ward; but he has reason to hope that on the next similar opportunity the regiment will have the benefit of his services and society.

"It is impossible to close these observations without noticing with becoming gratitude the frank and soldier-like generosity of Captain Taylor towards such of his comrades as the chance of service had brought upon a recent occasion into the vicinity of his hospitable residence.

"R. H. CLIVE,
"Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant."

On the 19th of February, 1840, the following order was issued, in consequence of orders having been received several weeks previously from the Home Office, requiring the regiment to hold itself in readiness:— 1840. February.

"QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, February 19th, 1840.

"The Commanding Officer has the gratification to communicate to the Regiment the substance of a letter dated the 17th of February, and received from the Under Secretary of State for the Home Department, at the desire of the Marquis of Normanby, acquainting him that the present state of the country enables the Marquis of Normanby to dispense with any immediate preparations on the part of the Queen's Own Regiment of Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry to meet in quarters.

1840. February. "'The Commanding Officer is further informed that Lord Normanby cannot desire this intimation to be made without accompanying it with his warmest thanks for the zeal and readiness displayed by the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own regiment, at a period when their services appeared necessary for the maintenance of order, and the preservation of the public peace.'

On the 12th the following order was issued :—

"THE QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, October 12th, 1840.

"THE Commanding Officer has great pleasure in communicating to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry, the annexed memorandum, in which Lieutenant-Colonel Wyndham, of the Royal Scots Greys, has been pleased to express his official opinion of their discipline and efficiency.

"It will be remembered that the inspection of Lieutenant-Colonel Wyndham on this occasion has been, in compliance with his instructions, of a very close and searching description ; and the testimony, therefore, of his approval may be received with an unusual satisfaction.

"'Worcester, October 9th, 1840.

"'LIEUTENANT-COLONEL CLIVE,

"'It is with the greatest satisfaction that I have this day witnessed the performances of your corps in the field ; and also, the great gratification that I had yesterday of inspecting the regiment in the details of their duty, and a greater example of assiduity on the part of the officers, and of zeal displayed on the part of the non-commissioned officers, and privates, there could not be. I have to beg you will return them all my best thanks for their exertions this day ; and at the same time to assure them that I feel proud to have had the honour of reviewing so fine a body of men.

(Signed) "'C. WYNDHAM,
"'Lieutenant-Colonel.'

"The Commanding Officer has also the honour to report the very kind and flattering opinion of Lord Lyttelton, Her Majesty's Lieutenant of the County of Worcester, who had the goodness to be present on this occasion, and who witnessed with an evident and natural satisfaction the creditable demeanour of a corps, in the formation of which his lamented and noble father took so conspicuous a share, and in which, under other circumstances, he was himself prepared to serve. 1840. October.

"It remains only for the Commanding Officer to take leave for the present of the Regiment, with a proud and grateful sense of the zealous and uniform co-operation and support which he has received from Lieutenant-Colonel Ward, Major Martin, the Captains and Subalterns, together with Captain and Adjutant Emmott, and the Staff; and he can assure the non-commissioned officers and privates that he has never felt greater reason to be thankful to them for their large attendance, their cleanliness, their sobriety, their regularity in quarters, and their intelligence and activity in the field.

"The services of Captain and Adjutant Emmott have been rendered with their accustomed promptitude and success, and the Commanding Officer must remark that Lieutenant Robson and the non-commissioned officers and men attached to the regimental guns, have received the satisfactory notice of the Inspecting Officer and of all competent observers.

"The unavoidable absence of Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Ward, has been a source of much regret to the Commanding Officer and his brother officers.

On the 25th of April, 1842, the regiment was called out in aid of the civil power to Stourbridge, Dudley, Oldbury, Hales Owen, Bromsgrove, Kidderminster, and Cradley, in consequence of a turn out of nailors and colliers, and remained on duty until the 11th of May inclusive, and received the thanks of the Secretary of State and of the Lord Lieutenant of the County, in the following circular:—

"QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Grosvenor Street, London, June 1st, 1842.

"THE Commanding Officer has the greatest satisfaction in communicating to the Regiment another testimony to their zeal and soldier-like conduct, as manifested lately at Dudley and its neighbourhood, in the subjoined letter, received from the Lord Lieutenant of the County.

"'39, Grosvenor Place, May 1st, 1842.

"'SIR,

"'I have the honour to communicate to you the following extract from a letter I have received from Sir James Graham, with reference to the late disturbances in the neighbourhood of Dudley, and the services performed on that occasion by the Regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry under your command.

"'I can not allow the opportunity to pass without expressing through your Lordship my thanks to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Corps of Yeomanry Cavalry, for the zeal and alacrity which they displayed when their services were required in aid of the civil power for the preservation of the public peace. 1842. June.

"'I beg to add an expression on my own part of my very strong sense of the admirable behaviour in all respects of the Corps, which I had the pleasure of witnessing on the late occasion, and I wish more particularly to express my cordial thanks to yourself and to the officers in general for your readiness and zeal in co-operating with the civil authorities in the most efficient manner when your services were required.

"'R. H. Clive, Lieut.-Colonel Commandant.'"

On the 30th of July, the regiment was again called out in aid of the civil power to Dudley, Oldbury, Stourbridge, and the mining district generally, and remained on duty in sectional portions from the regiment, varying as circumstances required from 150 to 400 non-commissioned officers and privates, until the 22nd of September, when they were all released from duty. For their services on this occasion the Regiment received the thanks of the Magistrates of the district in which they were engaged. July. September.

"The Commanding Officer, in taking leave for the present of the regiment, has the satisfaction to state, that their alacrity in assembling when ordered out in aid of the civil power, their steadiness in quarters, and their strict attention to discipline on all occasions, have called forth his most grateful thanks; which he begs every member of the Corps will consider as addressed to himself.

"The Commanding Officer cannot conclude these observations without expressing his thanks to Captain and Adjutant Emmott, for the constant and unremitting attention he has paid to all the duties that have been required of him, with his usual promptitude and success.

"R. H. CLIVE,
"Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant."

In consequence of the length of time the regiment had been engaged in aid of the civil power, permission was obtained, through the Lord Lieutenant of the County, from the Secretary of State for the Home Department, to hold an inspection only, instead of the usual annual permanent duty. Accordingly, on the 13th of October the regiment assembled in the towns and villages in the neighbourhood of Hewell, and on the 14th was inspected by Colonel Thorn, the officer in command of the district.

Immediately after the inspection the regiment was addressed by the Lord Lieutenant of the County (Lord Lyttelton), who read to them the general order, dated Horse Guards, 8th October, 1842, and inserted in the annexed circular, which also contains the approbation of the Inspecting Officer: these duties being over, the regiment dined at head quarters with the Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, and on the 15th returned to their quarters.

"QUEEN'S OWN REGIMENT OF WORCESTERSHIRE YEOMANRY CAVALRY.

"Head Quarters, Hewell, October 17th, 1842.

"The Commanding Officer has the gratification to call the attention of the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, to the flattering terms of the subjoined remarks of the Commander of the District, Colonel Thorn, A.Q.M. General, who has been pleased to express his approbation of the appearance of the regiment on the day of inspection in the field, and of their general state of discipline and equipments.

"'Birmingham, October 14th, 1842.

"'COLONEL THORN having had the honour this day to inspect the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, by command of the Field Marshal, Commanding in Chief, has great gratification in expressing his entire approbation of the soldier-like appearance of the regiment, and also of the manner in which the several squadrons moved in the field, which reflects the greatest possible credit on the Adjutant, Captain Emmott, and on the troop officers, and non-commissioned officers; for, if they had not evinced great zeal and attention in the instruction of the privates of their respective troops, by attending to their private drills, it would have been utterly impossible for the various movements which were executed by the whole regiment in the field, without any previous preparation, to have been performed with that accuracy and precision which they were this morning, when they only assembled for the purpose of inspection, and had been deprived of the advantage, which in former years they had possessed, of having been out for a week previously on permanent duty at Worcester.

"'The clothing, the cleanliness of the accoutrements, and the manner in which the horse appointments were fitted, are deserving of the greatest praise, and likewise the remarkable circumstance, that of the whole regiment there were only twelve privates absent from the muster this day (who were either sick, or on leave); and Colonel Thorn would feel he should not discharge his duty were he to omit to report in the most favourable terms the highly efficient state of the regiment, which is, at this moment, only one non-commissioned officer, and two privates, short of its establishment. 1842. October.

"'The two three-pounders guns attached to the regiment were particularly well served, and the artillerymen who worked them are entitled to much praise for the knowledge which they possess of their duty.

"'Colonel Thorn begs to assure the Honourable Colonel Clive, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, of the Queen's Own Worcestershire Yeomanry Cavalry, that he entertains a very high opinion of their valuable services; and he considers the high state of discipline and efficiency the regiment has attained to have been effected solely by the unremitting zeal and attention of all ranks to the discharge of their relative duties.

"The honour conferred upon the regiment by the presence of General Sir William Clinton at the inspection, and the remarks he made in the course of the day upon the appearance of the regiment, and the nature of the duties of a yeoman, must not be passed by unnoticed.

"General Sir William Clinton told you that the prevention of mischief, in times of threatened disturbance, is one of the main objects for which a yeomanry force is embodied, bringing to your immediate recollection the nature of those duties in which you have so lately been engaged.

"The Commanding Officer avails himself of this opportunity to offer his warmest thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel Lord Ward, the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, for the large attendance yesterday; thereby enabling the Lord Lieutenant of the County to make known to almost every member of the corps, at the head of the regiment, the General Order, containing the most gracious expression of Her Majesty's pleasure for the services rendered by the yeomanry.

" The Commanding Officer has to state that the yeomanry have been lately placed under the immediate orders of Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington, the Commander-in-Chief, and his Grace having reported to the Queen, through the Secretary of the Home Department, his sense of the duties they have recently performed, Her Majesty's approbation has been most graciously given to the publication of the following General Order, which the Commanding Officer feels proud to offer to the regiment.

" 'General Order.

" 'Horse Guards, 8th October, 1842.

" 'The corps of yeomanry which, during the late disturbances in the Northern District, were employed, under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief, in co-operation with the regular forces, and in aid of the civil authorities, having been relieved from permanent duty, Field Marshal the Duke of Wellington has discharged a duty the most gratifying to himself, by reporting to the Queen, through Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department, his Grace's sense of the promptitude and alacrity with which these corps assembled for the preservation of the public peace, regardless of the inconvenience to which a separation from their private avocations and pursuits, at that season of the year, must have exposed them.

" 'The Duke of Wellington did not fail to report to the Secretary of State, for the information of the Queen, at the time, his Grace's deep sense of the gallantry, discipline, activity, and forbearance, evinced by the yeomanry in the performance of the delicate and important duties with which it became necessary to entrust them, for the support of the magistracy in the restoration and maintenance of the public peace, the protection of private property, and the preservation to every individual of the community, of the right to work as he might himself be inclined, according to the terms of his agreement with his employer.

" 'The Commander in Chief has great satisfaction in publishing the expression conveyed to him by the Secretary of State, of Her Majesty's most gracious approbation of the services performed, as well by the yeomanry as by Her Majesty's troops.

1842. October.

" ' Whitehall, 23rd September, 1842.

" ' My Lord Duke,

" ' I have the honour to inform your Grace, that I have received the Queen's commands to express Her Majesty's high approval of the good conduct, exemplary forbearance, and steadiness of the military force employed in support of the civil authorities during the disturbances which have unhappily prevailed in many of the Northern and Midland Counties.

" ' I am further commanded to request your Grace to communicate to Lieutenant-General Sir Thomas Arbuthnot, Commanding in Chief in those Counties; to Major-General Sir William Warre, Major-General Brotherton, and Colonel Thorn; to the officers, non-commissioned officers, and privates, the expression of her Majesty's approval.

" ' I have, &c.

(Signed) " ' J. R. Graham.'

" ' His Grace the Commander in Chief.'

(Copy.)

" ' Whitehall, 26th September, 1842.

" ' My Lord Duke,

" ' I have had the honour of laying before the Queen your Grace's letter of the 23rd instant, and I have received Her Majesty's commands to communicate to your Grace Her Majesty's approval of the readiness with which the several corps of yeomanry cavalry, acting under the general officers of the districts where the public peace has been disturbed, have assembled for the service of their country, at a period of the year which must have been productive of great inconvenience to them.

" ' I am further commanded to express to your Grace Her Majesty's high approval of the gallantry, discipline, and forbearance, with which these several corps of yeomanry cavalry have performed the duty which was entrusted to them, of supporting the civil authorities, and of enabling them, by their active and successful assistance, to restore and to maintain the public peace, to protect property, and to preserve to all the right of pursuing their lawful occupations without molestation.

1842. October. "'I am, therefore, to communicate to your Grace Her Majesty's commands, that your Grace, at whose disposal the Yeomanry Cavalry on active service was placed during the late disturbances, will communicate to them Her Majesty's approval of their conduct, and Her confident reliance on their zeal, loyalty, and devotion, whenever it may be necessary to call upon them for their assistance.

"'I have, &c.

(Signed) "'J. R. GRAHAM.'

"'His Grace the Commander in Chief.'

"'The Field Marshal desires that a Copy of this Order may be sent by the Adjutant General, to the Commanding Officer of each of the corps of yeomanry lately called out and employed under his Grace's command, to the Commanding Officers of the several corps of cavalry, artillery, and infantry, employed in the Northern District on the service to which it relates, as well as to the Lieutenant-General commanding the Northern District.

"'By command of his Grace, the Commander-in-Chief,

"'JOHN MACDONALD,

"'Adjutant General.'

"The Commanding Officer considers it unnecessary to add one word more, convinced that these marks of Royal approbation will ever be present to the recollection of every British yeoman; who will reflect with honest pride that to the best of his ability he has faithfully discharged his duty to his Sovereign, and to his Country.

APPENDIXES.

(APPENDIX, No. I.)

As the foregoing pages have recorded various instances in which the regiment has been assembled to assist the Civil Power in the suppression of Riots and other Disturbances, and as the circumstances may unfortunately again occur, it may not, perhaps, be irrelevant to subjoin, for the guidance of any of my brother officers who may be so employed, the opinions of two of the most eminent legal authorities of our days, Lords Chief Justices Ellenborough and Tindal, as to the duties and conduct of all loyal subjects on such occasions.

R. H. C.,
Lieut.-Colonel Commandant.

"In case of any sudden riot or disturbance any of H. M.'s subjects, without the presence of a Peace Officer of any description, may arm themselves, and of course may use any ordinary means of force to suppress such riot and disturbance. This was laid down in my Lord C. J. Popham's Reports, 121, and Kelyng, 76, as having been resolved by all the Judges in the 39th of Queen Eliz., to be good law: and has certainly been recognized in Hawkins, and other writers on the Crown Law, and by various Judges at different periods since. And what H. M.'s subjects may do, they also ought to do, for the suppression of public tumult, when any exigency may require that such means be resorted to. Whatever any other class of H. M.'s subjects may allowably do in this particular, the military may unquestionably do also. By the Common Law every description of Peace Officers may and ought to do, not only all that in him lies, towards the suppression of riots; but may and ought to command all other persons to assist therein. However, it is by all means advisable to procure a Justice of the Peace to attend, and for the military to act under his immediate orders, when such attendance and the sanction of such orders can be obtained, as it not only prevents any disposition to unnecessary violence on the part of those who act in repelling the tumult, but it induces also, from the known authority of such magistrates, a more ready submission on the part of the rioters to the measures used for that purpose; but still, in cases of great and sudden emergency, the military, as well as all other individuals, may act without their presence, or without the presence of any other Peace Officer whatsoever.

"EDWARD LAW."

"Lincoln's Inn, Feb. 9th, 1801."

THE following is an authentic extract from the charge of Lord Chief Justice Tindal to the Grand Jury, arising out of the Bristol Riots, obtained through Mr. Whately, of the Chancery Bar:—

"Gentlemen, it has been well said, that the use of the law consists, first, in preserving men's persons from death and violence; next, in securing to them the free enjoyment of their property. And although every single act of violence, and each individual breach of the law, tends to counteract and destroy this its primary use and object, yet do general risings and tumultuary meetings of the people, in a more especial and particular manner, produce this effect; not only removing all security both from the person and property of men, but for the time putting down the law itself, and daring to usurp its place.

"The law of England hath accordingly, in proportion to the danger which it attaches to riotous and disorderly meetings of the people, made ample provision for preventing such offences, and for the prompt and effectual suppression of them whenever they arise. And I think it may not be unsuitable to the present occasion if I proceed to call your attention, with some degree of detail, to the various provisions of the law for carrying that purpose into effect.

"In the first place, by the common law, every private person may lawfully endeavour of his own authority, and without any warrant or sanction of the magistrate, to suppress a riot by every means in his power. He may disperse, or assist in dispersing, those who are assembled; he may stay those who are engaged in it from executing their purpose; he may stop and prevent others whom he shall see coming up from joining the rest; and not only has he authority, but it is his bounden duty, as a good subject of the King, to perform this to the utmost of his ability. If the riot be general and dangerous, he may arm himself against the evil doers to keep the peace. Such was the opinion of all the judges of England in the time of Elizabeth, in a case called 'The Case of Arms.' (Popham's Reports, 121.) Although the judges add, 'that it would be more discreet for every one, in such a case, to attend and be assistant to the justices, sheriffs, or other ministers of the King, in doing this.' It would, undoubtedly, be more advisable so to do; for the authority and presence of the magistrate would restrain the proceeding to such extremities, until the danger was sufficiently immediate, or until some felony was either committed, or could not be prevented without having recourse to arms; and at any rate, the assistance of men who act in subordination and concert with the civil magistrate will be more effectual to obtain the object proposed, than any efforts, however well intended, of separated and disunited individuals. But if the occasion demands immediate action, and no opportunity is given for procuring the advice or sanction of the magistrate, it is the duty of every subject to act for himself, and upon his own responsibility, in suppressing a riotous and tumultuous assembly; and he may be assured, whatever is done honestly by him in the execution of that object, will be supported and justified by the common law.

"And whilst I am stating the obligation imposed by the law on every subject of the realm, I wish to observe, that the law acknowledges no distinction in this respect between the soldier and the private individual.

"The soldier is still a citizen, lying under the same obligation, and invested with the same authority, to preserve the peace of the King as any other subject. If the one is bound to attend the call of the civil magistrate, so also is the other; if the one may interfere for that purpose, when the occasion demands it, without the requisition of the magistrate, so may the other too: if the one may employ arms for that purpose, when arms are necessary, the soldier may do the same.

"Undoubtedly the same exercise of discretion which requires the private subject to act in subordination to, and in aid of the magistrate, rather than upon his own authority, before recourse is had to arms, ought to operate in a still stronger degree with a military force. But where the danger is pressing and immediate, where a felony has actually been committed, or cannot otherwise be prevented, and, from the circumstances of the case, no opportunity is offered of obtaining a requisition from the proper authorities, the military subjects of the King, like his civil subjects, not only may, but are bound to do their utmost, of their own authority, to prevent the perpetration of outrage, to put down riot and tumult, and to preserve the lives and property of the people.

"Gentlemen, still further, by the common law, not only is each private subject bound to exert himself to the utmost, but every sheriff, constable, and other peace-officer is called upon to do all that in them lies for the suppression of riot, and each has authority to command all other subjects of the King to assist them in that undertaking.

"Such, gentlemen, are the different provisions of the law of England for the putting down of tumultuary meetings; and it is not too much to affirm, that if the means provided by the law are promptly and judiciously enforced by the magistrate, and honestly seconded by the co-operation of his fellow-subjects, very few and rare would be the instances in which tumultuous assemblages of the people would be able to hold defiance to the laws."

(APPENDIX, No. II.)

Regimental Rules and Orders of the Worcestershire regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry (now the Queen's Own), by Colonel the Right Honourable the Earl of Plymouth.

General.

1st. Any member wishing to quit the regiment after receiving new clothing, if before three years' wear, shall pay to the regimental fund 2l. 15*s.*

2nd. No member to quit without giving two months' notice, on penalty of 2l. 15*s.*, to be paid to the regimental fund in addition to the former.

3rd. Any member wearing any article of his clothing, or accoutrements, except when on duty, shall pay one guinea to the regimental fund.

4th. Any member losing or negligently damaging any article of his clothes or accoutrements, shall pay to the regimental fund the price which such article shall have cost.

Regulations for each Troop.

1st. Any officer not attending parade, shall forfeit one guinea.

2nd. Any non-commissioned officer not attending, shall forfeit ten shillings.

3rd. Any private not attending, shall forfeit five shillings.

4th. A certificate of sickness shall be the only excuse for non-attendance, unless the Commanding Officer shall think otherwise.

The above Rules and Regulations were approved of and confirmed by his Majesty William the Fourth, 17th June, 1831.

Regimental Orders.

Is, for an Officer in Barracks or Quarters, cap, with oilskin cover, blue frock coat, with scales and white trowsers; but at Parades, and appearing in Public, or visiting his Quarters and Stables in Cantonments, the sword and belt to be worn, with short gloves.

For Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers, blue cap, jacket, white trowsers, and boots or shoes, and short gloves.

Is, for an Officer when he dresses for dinner, scarlet coat with epaulettes, gold sash, laced blue trowsers, cap without oilskin.

For Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers after mid-day stable hour, in the Morning Dress, see No. 1.

No. 3. Orderly Officer.

The Orderly Officer attends all mounted Parades, Morning and Evening Dress, with sword and belts; but when on other Duties and at Parades, he will appear as other officers do; when he sits down to dinner the sword may be taken off, but so placed that he can put it on immediately should duty require his attendance, but the pouch and belt must be constantly worn, as well as the shoulder scales, on this duty.

No. 4. For Divine Service.

Is, unless otherwise ordered, for an Officer, chaco (without cover), with plume, scarlet coat with epaulettes, sword and belt, laced blue trowsers, gold sash, and short gloves, boots and spurs.

For Non-commissioned Officers and Privates, chaco (without oilskin), plume, coat and scales, grey trowsers, sash, sword and belt, short gloves, boots and spurs.

No. 5. Watering Order.

For Officers, Non-commissioned Officers, and Troopers, in the Morning Dress, see No. 1; horses with curb bridles, saddles and holsters, but without cloak, pistol, sheepskin, no shabracque, head collar, or chain, and in short gloves.

No. 6. Field-day Order.

Is for all, scarlet coat with scales, grey trowsers, chaco, with oilskin and plume, sash, sword and belts, pistols; horses in curb bridle, saddle, holsters, cloaks buckled on before, sheepskins, shabracques, head collars and chains, and with carbines and short gloves.

No. 7. Drill Order.

Is, for an Officer, frock coat with scales, white trowsers, cap with oilskin cover, sword and belts.

For Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers, blue jacket, cap, white trowsers, sword and belts, carbine, pistol, all in short gloves, the horse in curb bridle, saddle, cloak, holsters, but no sheepskin, head collars, or shabracques.

No. 8. Review Order.

Is, for an Officer, chaco (without cover), plume, scarlet coat, epaulettes, gold sash, laced blue trowsers, sword and belts, gauntlet gloves, boots and spurs, horse as in marching order.

For Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers, coat, grey trowsers, sash, chaco (without cover), plume, sword and belts, carbine and pistol, gauntlet gloves; the horse full accoutred, and with sheepskin, head collar, and chain.

No. 9. Marching Order.

Is, for an Officer, chaco, with oilskin cover, plume, scarlet coat with scales, gold sash, grey trowsers, sword and belts; scales of chaco buckled under the chin on all parades, the end of gold line fastened to the button on left breast; horse full accoutred, and with head collar and rein, sheepskin and shabracque, the ends of which are to be hooked up over the crup in dirty weather; all in gauntlet gloves.

Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers, chaco with cover, plume, scales buckled under the chin, coat scales, grey trowsers, sash, sword and belts, gauntlet gloves, haversack over the right shoulder, in which are the stable dress, linen, brushes, &c. necessary for duty; should it be necessary to carry a feed of corn, each man will do so in his nose-bag for that purpose, fastened to the near ring of the saddle behind.

No. 10. In aid of the Civil Authorities. This duty will be performed in marching order, but without shabracques or plumes, see No. 9.

No. 11. In-lying Picquet. Is for all, when on Permanent Duty, the same as field-day order, but without plume, sheepskin, and shabracque; all in short gloves, and to wear their pouch and belt for the day on all duties: if called out, each Non-commissioned Officer will with his squad proceed to the alarm post or place of parade immediately.

No. 12. Escort Duties. To escort a Royal Personage, will be in review order; but to escort prisoners, will be in field-day order, without shabracques, see No. 6, but with head collar and chain.

No. 13. Under Arms on Foot. Is, for all, chaco, plume without cover, scarlet coat, scales, sash, grey trowsers, sword and belts, boots and spurs, short gloves, carbineers with carbines.

No. 14. On Foot with side-arms. Is, for all, chaco (without oilskin), plume, coat with scales, sash, grey trowsers, short gloves, boots and spurs, sword and belt.

No. 15. On Foot with side-arms to Drill. Officers in the morning dress, sword and belt; Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers, stable jacket, cap, white trowsers, sword and belt, short gloves.

No. 16. Guards. As may be ordered.

No. 17. Appointments and Accoutrements. The arms, the bridle, and as much of the saddlery as possible, to be kept in the men's rooms, and ready to be taken up at once, however dark it may be, in the case of necessity.

No. 18. Observations. Officers to wear spurs and gloves when in regimentals. The shirt collar never to appear above the stock. Non-commissioned Officers and Troopers to wear gloves, spurs, and straps to trowsers, at all parades, except the spurs, which will not be worn at the foot drill, morning or evening dress, or in watering order; scales of chaco to be down and buckled under the chin on all parades.

White trowsers to be worn at all parades from the first of May to the conclusion of permanent duty, unless otherwise ordered. The irons to be kept in oil at all times, except when brightened for parade.

No. 19. Stable-hours.

The morning stable-hour to be at six o'clock from the 1st of April to the 1st of October, and at seven o'clock from the 2nd of October to the 31st of March. The mid-day stable-hour from half-past twelve to one o'clock, and evening stable-hour from half-past seven to eight o'clock. Non-commissioned officers to visit, and see that the horses are cleaned and fed, and all things clean and in order, at the stable-hour. Each sergeant is answerable for his own squad, and will report all irregularities to his captain, or officer who may visit the quarters of his troop; makes his squad parades, marches to his troop parade, and makes his report, of any misconduct that may have occurred, to his captain.

Leave of Absence.

Any trooper requiring leave of absence applies through his sergeant to the captain, for the adjutant's information, to the colonel.

Order.

When on permanent duty, one sergeant in each troop will be appointed an orderly-sergeant, whose duty it is to receive all orders from the sergeant-major at the orderly hour, copying them into his book, then showing it to his officers, and then to the non-commissioned officers of his own troop, who are to make out, and communicate to every man of their respective squads what duty they are to perform, agreeable to the order received; the orderly sergeant marches all men to parades, &c., makes his report to the sergeant-major or adjutant, as may be; and when his troop assembles for a general parade, precedes it five minutes, and makes the report of the number of men and horses present on parade to the sergeant-major or adjutant.

Sounds, &c.

Between the time of the trumpet sounding to turn out a quarter of an hour is allowed for the squad-parade, and marching to the troop-parade, where ten minutes more is allowed for the telling off and joining the general parade of the regiment, unless the regiment is in very extended cantonments indeed, and then the time will be considered. For a foot-parade of small portions of men for special duties only, ten minutes are allowed between the first sound and general parade.

(APPENDIX, No. XXVIII.)

Instructions for Permanent Duty, issued by the Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Corps of Yeomanry Cavalry are allowed under the regulations hereinafter mentioned to assemble on Permanent Pay and Duty, for a period not exceeding six successive days in the present year, exclusive of the days of marching to and from the place of assembly, in lieu of going out for training and exercise, under the provisions of the 46th and ensuing sections of the Volunteer Act.

Previous to the actual assembling of any Corps on such duty, the time and place for its assembly are to be submitted by the Commandant to the Lord Lieutenant of the County, by whom the same will be notified to the Secretary of State for the Home Department, in order that his Majesty's pleasure may be taken thereupon, and signified by such Secretary of State to the Lord Lieutenant; and no Corps is to be actually assembled until the Commandant shall have received from the Lord Lieutenant of the County a notification in writing that his Majesty has been pleased to approve of the time and place proposed for the assembly of his Corps.

Corps assembled upon this duty, where there is a General of the district, to be under his command; or if assembled in a garrison to be under the command of the Governor or Commandant thereof, for the time being: and they are in all respects diligently to conform to the rules, regulations, and ordinances of his Majesty's military service. And the Commanding Officer of the Corps, as soon as he shall have received from the Lord Lieutenant of the County a notification of his Majesty's permission for the assembling of the Corps, will transmit to the War Office a return of the officers, non-commissioned officers, trumpeters, and private men to be assembled, and is to follow such directions as shall be communicated to him by that department, with respect to the payment, subsistence, and the economy of the men so assembled.

The pay and allowance of officers of Corps assembled on this duty, will be equal to the pay and allowance of officers of the regular Cavalry; and to non-commissioned officers, trumpeters, and privates, the sum of seven shillings per day will be issued in lieu of every other charge whatsoever.

The Commanding Officer is to cause the Articles of War to be read to his Corps as soon after his first assembling as may be practicable, and to repeat the same from time to time in the manner practised in the Militia and regular Forces.

N.B.—It is necessary in all cases in which monies are remitted to the Bank of England that a notification thereof, in the above form, should be made both to the Paymaster-General and the War-Office, in order that the sums so remitted may be allowed in the accounts. The remittance must be made invariably in the following manner:—Either by means of a bill, (such being made payable and remitted to the Governor and Company of the Bank of England, to be placed to the credit of the Paymaster-General,) or in cash, in which latter case the person tendering the cash at the Bank of England must obtain, and produce, from the Army-Office, Whitehall, an order to the Bank of England to receive it.

Remittances having in many instances been forwarded by mistake to the Paymaster-General, it is necessary further to notice, that the Paymaster-General is restricted by Act of Parliament from receiving the same, and any remittances forwarded otherwise than to the Bank of England will be returned.
